

Points of Contact: Recovery Act Site Representatives/Senior Technical Advisors

Recovery Act Site Representatives (RASRs) serve as the DOE Environmental Management (EM) Recovery Act Program mechanism for continuous improvement by providing real-time information on best practices, lessons learned and emerging issues from RASRs assigned at the other sites. The RASR will have responsibility for monitoring and reporting on technical, programmatic, regulatory, environment, safety and health (ES&H), and fiscal execution of site work funded by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 (Recovery Act). The incumbent functions as an extension of the Recovery Act Program Director to continuously monitor and report on the Recovery Act projects' progress and quality, make recommendations on corrective actions, and provide continuous on-site presence from the EM Recovery Act Program. Key duties include the following:

- (1) Share lessons learned and facilitate communications on key issues
- (2) Make recommendations on corrective actions and track corrective actions;
- (3) Provide daily interface with on-site personnel;
- (4) Participate on critiques and investigations; and
- (5) Provide Recovery Act Program continuous on-site presence.*

*Note that some smaller sites have a RASR performing the role as a collateral duty, and are not continuously on site.
